A Regular Fix.

In Bloomfield the people are talking about incorporating as a city of the third class, and a resident of Englewood, in a communication to a Bloomfield friend, published in the Bloomfield CITIZEN of last week, tells about the workings of the law under which Englewood is operating as a city of the third class. Incidentally he tells how Dover is likewise incorporated as a city of the third class under the same law. There is something funny about this. It is true, we believe, that Dover was incorporated as a city of the third class under the same law under which Englewood is incorporated, but that law was some five years ago declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court and Dover reverted to its former status and again became a town, which it has been ever since. If Englewood gets its powers as a city under that selfsame act that municipality has no present legal status, for the act under which it was incorporated has by due process of law been made a nullity.

In the matter of excise boards for towns there exists a like contradictory state of affairs. The Dover Excise Board was put out of business by the Supreme Court, which tribunal declared the act governing the formation of excise board in towns to be unconstitutional. Yet Morristown, Boonton, and Orange all have excise boards appointed under that selfsame law which the Supreme Court declared unconstitutional. It is true that a later decision by the Court of Errors and Appeals in a practically parallel case upheld a law which, as far as the constitutional questions involved were concerned, was on all fours with the excise law which in the case of Schwarz versus the town of Dover was declared unconstitutional, but the fact remains that that decision has never been reversed, and until reversed the law is as if it had never been enacted. So here we have the curious spectacle of excise boards performing their functions in a number of towns despite the fact that the law to which they originally owed their existence is legally no longer on the statute books, and the equally curious spectacle of one municipality operating as a city of the third class under a law which in a suit brought against the "city of Dover" was declared null and void. In the matter of granting of excise licenses the Era would like to go on record as predicting that when the time rolls around again for granting licenses they will be granted by an excise board and not by the Common Council. Yet, is it not strange that a decision of the Supreme Court so far as its general application goes, can be vitiated by indirection, as has practically been done in the case of the excise board decision of that court?—Dover Era.

Careers for Coming Men.

Choosing a career for young men to follow has always been a matter of interest and importance to parents as well as to young men themselves. As the great majority of young men entering business life have little to invest except their brains and enthusiasm, the question has always been, "What business can be entered with the greatest prospect for future success, requiring the investment of little or no capital at the beginning?"

United States Senator John F. Dryden of New Jersey, one of the most prominent and successful men of this country, and the man who first introduced industrial life insurance into the United States, has written an interesting and timely article on the opportunities which life insurance offers as a career for men starting in business. The article has been printed in a handsome little brochure by the Prudential Insurance Company of America, of which Senator Dryden is President, and as that company gives employment to more than 20,000 people, Senator Dryden can be said to speak with authority. An important thought in reading Senator Dryden's article is that his remarks apply with the same force to men in middle age as to young men. The article is worth reading by all men, young and old, and a copy of the booklet will be sent upon request to the home office of the Prudential at Newark, N. J.

It Saves You Money.

Dr. Howard's Dyspepsia Specific: Regular Price 50c., W. W. Keyler's Price 25c.

The special half price sale of Dr. Howard's specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia by W. W. Keyler means the saving of a few dollars on every family's yearly bill for medicines.

Each 50 cent bottle (Mr. W. W. Keyler sells it for 25c.) contains sixty doses of a medicine that is pleasant to take and which can be depended upon to cure the worst case of constipation, dyspepsia or liver trouble. Mr. W. W. Keyler has so much faith in the superior merit of this medicine that he says: "If Dr. Howard's specific does not cure you, come back to my store and I will return your money."

If you are troubled with constipation, headache or dizziness, or if your food does not digest naturally and easily, you cannot afford to let pass the special price that Mr. W. W. Keyler is making this week on Dr. Howard's specific.

This remedy is not an ordinary medicine. It is the favorite formula of a well-known physician, and has the endorsement of hundreds of physicians of eminence in their profession, who prescribe it in all cases of constipation, dyspepsia or liver trouble, knowing from experience that it will make a complete and lasting cure.

Mr. W. W. Keyler is giving his customers a chance to try Dr. Howard's specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia at just half the regular price, 25c. And every package is sold under his personal guarantee to refund the money if it is not satisfactory.—Adv't.

Report Referred Back.

After a full debate, in which many prominent citizens took part, the Newark Board of Trade, Wednesday night, by unanimous vote, decided to refer back to its special committee the report recommending the abandonment of the Morris canal with a view to the use of its bed in that city and vicinity by the Public Service Corporation for trolley lines for the transportation of freight and passengers.

The action was taken with the approval also of the members of the committee which presented the report at the last meeting, Moses Plaut, the chairman, saying that he and his colleagues had undertaken their work entirely in the dark, and that every effort had been made to secure the opinions of members. The report as presented, he added, expressed the views of a very large number, though the fuller discussion proved that some of its sections were unsatisfactory. He promised when the report was returned to the committee it would have the undesired features eliminated.
